The first of these is the fact that the United States has a large and growing population of colored people who are not only free but also are becoming more and more educated and enterprising.
The second is the fact that the colored people of the United States are becoming more and more united and are beginning to assert their rights as citizens.
The third is the fact that the United States is a democracy and that all its citizens are equal before the law.

It is the duty of the United States to protect the rights of all its citizens and to see that no one is denied the rights of citizenship. It is the duty of the United States to see that no one is discriminated against [The page contains extremely faint, illegible text and a table structure. The text appears to be a memorandum or report, possibly related to military or administrative matters. The table, located in the upper left quadrant, has several columns and rows, but the content is too faded to transcribe. The overall quality of the document is poor, with significant fading and some dark spots on the right edge.]
